Second Republican District.

At the Young Men's Christian Association hall in Boston last Saturday a convention of delegates from the Second Councilor Republican District was held for the momination of a candidate for Councilor of that district for the coming year. At the opening of the meeting a unanimous vote placed Walter Barter in the chair for the day and C. A. Gilmore of Walpole was chosen secretary. A committee of five was appointed on credentials. This committee was composed of N. D. Canterbury, H. P. Plympton of Walpole, S. C. Jones of Ward 21, Boston, Hon. Cyrus Savage of Tannton and Robert W. Carpenter of Foxboro. As chairman of this committee Mr. Carpenter reported that 102 certified delegates were present, representing the towns and cities in the district.

Col. Henry A. Thomas presented the name of Benjamin S. Lovell as candidate for nomination for the office of Councilor. This nomination received a unanimous vote by acclamation. A motion by Edward H. Wise of Ward 22, Boston, to make the gathering a permanent organization resulted in the appointment of a committee of five to direct its affairs. On this committee there will be Mr. Wise, Walter Carter, Mr. Canterbury, Mr. Plympton and Mr. Jones.

Never was the blighting effects of free trade on agriculture so well exposed as in "Protection and Prosperity." After recounting the campaign of Mr. Cobden and the Math-Corn Law League, Mr. Curtiss says:

After the Corn Law were repealed, and the work of the League accomplished, it then threw off the mask and boldly announced to the world that if the farmers of England were unable to survive the competition of foreign countries, it was no fault of free trade, and they must perish. They had either obtained the influence of teant farmers or had allayed their active opposition by false pretences, fallacies and deceptive arguments. They had told them that the repeal of the Corn Laws was necessary to save the farmer himself from ultimate ruin, that free trade would raise the price of farm produce and that England could compete with any country in the world. In 1854, when the farmers of England could compete with any country in the world. In 1854, when the farmers of England were crying out against the impending ruin, the Anti-Corn Law League comes to the rescue again, but with an entirely different argument. It now announces a great, scientific truth, a fundamental principle of economies, a law of nature, as will appear from the following quotation taken from "The Charter of the Nations," in which the Anti-Corn Law League gave to the world its review of one phase of the free trade movement:

"To order to make out the beneficial influence of free trade on our agricultural interests, it is by no means necessary to prove that agriculture is at the present mount as profitable to those who are engaged in it as it was under our protective system. The permanent utility of the change to agriculture itself, may render in evitable a temporary diminution of profits, meeting the proposed to competition, the persons engaged in the proposed to the protects of the people. As soon as they are exposed to competition, the persons engaged in the proposed to competition of skill and on the old system, but if in a national point of the ment the highest amount of skill and energy. For a time the struggle may be hard, and less profits may be realized than on the old system, but if in a national point of view, such interests are worth cultivating, the foreigner will soon be driven from the market. If they are not worth cultivating they will soon become extinct, nor is there any reason, in such circumstances, to wish their perpetuation. Apple Sauce That Will Keep.

Apple Sauce That Will Keep.

This is as great a convenience as preserves, the preparation of apples for sauce not always being convenient for the busy housekeeper. Inferior apples may be used in this way, and the windfalls of early autumn, when one is fortunate enough to own an orchard, will be found quite available. They should be peeled, cored and freed from every blemish, then cut up in quite small pieces. A large earthen jar with a cover should be ready to receive them. Into this put first a liberal sprinkling of sugar, with cinnaumon to taste, then a layer of apples, then more sugar and cinnamon, and so on till the jar is full. The sugar should be regulated according to the namon, and so on till the jar is full. The sugar should be regulated according to the tartness of the apples, from a quarter to a half pound for I pound of apples being the rule. The jar should be placed at the back of the range and the fruit kept covered and gently simmering through the day. It should then be set away to cool, and the apples taken out only as they are needed for sauce or desserts. Having no water mixed with them, apples prepared in this way are very palatable.

Social Barn Party. The friends of Miss Frances M. Houghton of Independence square South Weymouth were entertained in a novel manner Friday evening, Sept. 25. The party numbering one hundred besides home friends were people from Boston, Roxbury and Brock-ton, who came to enjoy a social evening in the spacious barn. The stable which had been trimmed with hemlock, golden rod and marigolds, bunting of the national colors, and Japanese lanterns, showed much pains and taste and presented a very pretty sight. Castle Square Theatre. "The Bohemian Girl" has been selected s the fourth of the season's attractions at heCastle Square Theatre. The popularity f this opera is best shown by the fact that t has held the stage wherever operatic usic is known for over half a century, i riginal production having been made i been sung in every language, and its music has become as familiar on the concert stage and in the home as in its original form for stage production. Its earlier per-formances by the Castle Square company have been made notable by the revival of many numbers not usually heard in the productions of later days; and Mr. Max Hirschfeld has always succeeded in meetng the severest criticisms by the present ions of the opera under his bator

The Republican Editorial association of this state will hold its annual reunion and dinner at the Parker house, Boston, Oct. 10 at 2 p. m. Among the invited guests who will be present will be Gov. Wolcott and the other nominees upon the state ticket, Chairman Lyman of the Republican ticket, Chairman Lyman of the Republican State committee, and other prominent republicans. This association was formed in 1891, has had a successful and useful existence ever since, and now includes a large part of the republican daily and weekly papers of the state. Among its honorary members are included leading men in the party also. Although working entirely independently, along its own lines, for the success of republican principles and candidates, it yet has the hearty sympathy and co-operation of the Lepubli-can organizations of the state, of like The increasing prospect of republican success in November has already caused such an increase in the price of wheat, corn, cotton and other products of the farm, as to represent many millions of dollars in sound money. The complete success of the party at the November elections will cause a still cause a still cause as well as the success. will cause a still further advance by giving more work to the consumers, while the latter will also thus receive their share of the benefit of the success of sound money principles and the victory of the idea of protecting the American workingmen. Vote the republican ticket. The claim of the democrats that they are the only party of good and honest govern-ment was signally "illuminated" by the light of events in Boston, last Saturday, when the two wings, or factions, of the party held their rival "conventions." The intelligent voter who really wants good government will not have much difficulty in making up his mind how to vote after

Now that the republican nominations for the state ticket have been made, every republican is urged to spare no effort to get out every vote possible so as to make their majority the biggest on record. And not only will republicans turn out to honor that ticket, but many democrats will honor themselves and the ticket as well by giving it their patriotic support. "When in doubt" vote the republican ticket, and you will be safe.

Aside from the question of sound money, that of the tariff still remains prominent. What the masses want more than all else is a chance to work. They will trust the expert financiers to determine on what they are to be paid in if they are only given a chance to earn the pay. While "sound money" is best of all, even silver money is better than none. For this reason every man who has to earn his living ought to vote for those members of Congress who can be depended upon to stand squarely for a proper revision of the tariff so as t give to American workmen all necessary protection against foreign competitors. The competition within our own limits will end to keep prices down to a proper level the foreign competition gives the price of American labor below its right level and

Direct Questions For Honest PLUNGING INTO FLAMES.

Row Policeman Bedell, of Brooklyn, N Y., Sourched His Heels Saving a Life-Other Interesting Bio-graphical Facts. is it wise to follow the lead of men in public life who are radically wrong in their statements from day to day, when their education and experience forbids belief in their innocent ignorance and when they have an easily discernable

What are a man's sensations as he plunges, regardless of consequences, into a seething sea of flame and smoke?

Does the herole rescuer of some child or invalid from the horrors of a death by fire or suffocation count, the changes against him, or does he cast thought and consideration to the winds and simply go where duty calls?

To the average man these questions orant and uninformed, are lying to them in relation to our money of circu-lation, and seeking to make them believe that the more thrifty people of the land have conspired to contract the volume of this circulating medium for their own benefit and to the detriment of all others, when, as a matter of fact, there has been, not only no contraction, but, on the contrary, a large increase thereof?

If the currency volume has, as it has, been increased, can we reasonably attribute present low prices to an alleged reduction in this volume which has never taken place?

consideration to the winds and simply go where duty calls?

To the average man these questions would be difficult to answer, but there is one man who is as well qualified as any living person to tell how it feels to face one of the most horrible deaths known. And that, too, for the sake of others. The public are always intensely interested in the motions of a hero.

That man is Officer Robert Bedell, of the Brooklyn polities force. He is a hero in every sense of the word. From out of the very jaws of death he has snatched human lives, and as the fire fiend reached out its hot, encircling arms, he has borneven rescued one to safety.

Policeman Bedell has had many terrible experiences; decidedly more than falls to the common lot of even a policeman. reduction in this volume which has never taken place?

Now, if there has been no contraction of the currency, the men who allege such contraction are either ignorant of the true condition of things,or they are detrue condition of things, or they are de-liberately lying to us for some selfish purpose of their own. In either case, ought we to allow them to lead us? Now, fairly considered and aside from any question of the cause, how are low prices hurting you? Would you care to vote for an increase of say one half in your grocery bills, your butcher's bills or your fuel bills? As a matter of fact, do you put try to rible experiences; decidedly more than falls to the common lot of even a policeman.

Now, fairly considered and aside from any question of the cause, how are low prices hurting you?

Would you care to vote for an increase of say one half in your grocery bills, your butcher's bills or your fuel bills?

As a matter of fact, do you not try to find the stores where good goods are sold at the lowest prices in making your regular purchases?

When you find such stores, do you consider it a misfortune or a piece of good luck?

Do you consider yourself outraged and wronged by the man who sells you your coal at six dollars per ton instead of charging you a dollar more, as some dealers do?

Is it a hardship for you, and an evidence of wrong conditions when you can buy clothes for yourself and your family of better quality and for less money than you used to?

Now, when political adventurers come along and seek to convince us that these low prices are a hardship, is it not well to find out whether they are fools or are trying to make fools of us?

For those of us who work for wages, are trying to make fools of us?

For those of us who work for wages, pay is higher than in 1873, while the things pay is higher than in 1873, while the things which we must buy to live, are lower in price, so that we have more dollars, each one of which will buy more of the necessaries and luxuries of life than at any time in the past. Under these circumstances, would we not be the most pitiable of fools to allow ourselves to be led into voting for a change, simply that the mise owners of the west right have the mine owners of the west might hav a larger and a better market for their silver, and that too simply and solely for their own benefit? Don't you see that when men have for their own benefit?

Don't you see that when men have large capital invested in mills and machinery, it is just as much to their interest to work them as it is yours to work in them?

If this be the case, the purely selfish interests of both employer and employe are identical and the same, and is it not plain that the most selfish instincts of the most selfish manufacturers, if they be ordinarily intelligent, must lead them in a course which must be of benefit to those who work for them?

Now, this being true, as the employing class, with all of its interests at stake and all of its larger sources of information, is in a better position to know what is good for it than its less directly interested fellow citizens, is it not safe to conclude that they will take wise and good care of themselves, and so doing, necessarily conserve the best interests of the laboring classes?

You do not for a moment believe that your employer looks out for you because he wishes to run his setablishment as a charitable institution, do you?

But don't you know that as he cannot benefit himself without benefitting you, you can safely trust him to sit up nights for your sponse that the business men of this country know as well what is contained and combined interests?

Don't you suppose that the business men of this country know as well what is contained and conditioned in the smoke. pyou, you can safely trust nime to sit up nights for your joint and combined interests?

Don't you suppose that the business men of this country know as well what would be good for them or bad for them in the line of silver coinage as a lot of political adventurers and briefless country lawyers?

Now, if these business men saw that a larger circulation of silver would be a benefit to them, don't you know that they would all favor it, instead of opposing it, as they now do?

Don't you see that they know that it would interfere with their business, and for that reason and for that reason only they are opposing it?

Now, if free silver would be a benefit to them, don't you know that it would interfere with their business, and for that reason and for that reason only they are opposing it?

The market price of whalebone is now something like $11,000 a ton, and it is appreciating in value all the time. the lead, are good from now until snow files, if it files as soon as is its wont. There is considerable use made this year of braiding and stitching, as means of marking and trimming gowns and wraps. Braid, when it is used, such as one sees in white upon blue yachting swith reluctant feet where the summer and autumn meet she begins to think of many things in the way of brave adormment, and to wonder—well, for one thing, if the new sleeve is in any wise applicable to outer raiment, and, for another, what may prove the prevailing type of autumn jacket.

Fluff of lace is not yet quite put away, for the bright fluttering creatures that gather to watch the boat races on the Stockbridge bowl lift their field glasses with hands bewristed in white culfa, and their immaculate white sailor collars are edged with lace, as in real salt water yachting they would never be.

The smartest and newest golfing suit here, frankly influenced by English modes, adopts a tight sleeve with but the slightest suggestion of fullness at the shoulder. The skirt bottom and cuffs are heavily stitched about five inches from the edge; there is a white strap belt, the bodice is double-breasted, and in the collar, rather oddly, there is a panel of black velves uch as one sees on men's overcoats. The material is what is called a "heather mixture," a sort of finely-chopped hash of the clan tartan colors. Fitted with a spotless white tam cap or with a Glengarry in the heather mixture, the same suit would do finely for bicycling, were the skirt cut somewhat shorter.

Another combination which stamps dress—has rather quieter mixed colors, a strap belt and a jacket with doubles.

DEATH SCENES IN FICTION. Mongrel Affairs Which Are Neither S ence Nor Good Art.

Mongrei Affairs Which Are Neither Seience Nor Good Art.

We do not see on what ground, either of art or science, of public good or private morals, the publishing of medical descriptions of death in popular novels can be justified. We do not mean to say that the novelist sheuld not allow his patients to die if circumstances compel it; or that he should not describe the way they die in as pathetic, dramatic or tragic a manner as he chooses. But to introduce into the pages of novels technical descriptions of deaths from diphtheria, opium poisoning, lighter than the cloth. It's just a fad as yet; if it lasts, it's a mode. Hats of ceremony are moderate of brim, wide and flat of crown. Gowns of ceremony-let me describe one used at an "autumn leaves" frolic. The skirt anything you like so that it is figured silk and edged with a wide double frill of chiffon. The belta wide satin ribbon. The vest and undersleeves are built line upon line and precept on precept of tiny, narrow, close-fitting frills of lace, and narrow, close-fitting frills of lace, and over the undersleeves, at the shoulders, are swept two folds of figured silk in the wreath-like style so much used just now for evening gowns; the lapels and collar are satin ribbon again. Of course such a gown belongs rather to the passing summer than to the autumn that is here.

And oh, the autumn! The frolic of rustling, clean brown leaves in the woods' aisles, the trails of clematis bursting into its clouds of winged seed sails, the bitter-sweet showing the red We are led to these remarks by a perusal bursting into its clouds of winged seed sails, the bitter-sweet showing the red heart under its yellow coat! I have seen a very pretty one made to match its gown, trimmed with smallish round buttons and lined down the side with groups of knife plaits, three in each group, to bear out similar lines of plaiting in the otherwise plain skirt.

It would be a clever device for some brown little woman few of inches and partridge plump. And though I would hardly advise her to wear that very wide ribbon belt of black velvet noted in the example of which I speak, the knife-plaited bodice front can be recommended without hesitation. a bath in a trunk is something that has just been made possible.

Eugene Sandow is the man who has developed the idea, and it is as practical as his muscles. People who have tried the invention say he knows exactly what he is talking about.

The trunk tub, says the New York Journal, looks like a trunk, and that is just what it is, for when it is not in use for bathing purposes it is perfectly available for ordinary trunk purposes. It is leather bound, cornered with bright steel fittings, and finished with highly-polished, brass-headed nails. It has a massive brass lock, ornamented so as to add greatly to the looks of the as to add greatly to the looks of the

as to add greatly to the looks of the affair.

To transform the trunk into a bath-tub all that is necessary to do is to raise the lid, lift out the trays, and the tub is before you. The box portion of the trunk is lined with a light, waterproof fabric. The trunk is octagonal in shape, so there are no sharp corners inside. In one of the trays of the trunk there

Under this idea it is not necssary to move the trunk-tub, as the water is carried to it from the length of any ordinary house. In the same compartment with the hose line there is a little faucet.

Close to the bottom of the trunk is a little stopeock which works from the inside. On the outside all that can be seen is a little hole, showing a steel surface cut with a thread. Into this hole from the outside the little faucet is Catholics Change Their Prayers.

No stronger indication could be afforded of the sagacity and statesmanship of the present pontiff than the tendency which he manifests to comply with the requirements of the democratic spirit of the age. For centuries past the Catholics are annually called upon, in a midsummer papal brief, to make use of prayers for "the peace and good understanding of Christian princes and rulers." In the brief that bears the date of July 1 last, containing the customary instructions with regard to these prayers, the ancient formula disappeared, and the pope, instead of calling upon the faithful to pray for "the union of Christian rulers," asks them to pray for "the freedom of the church, and for the peace and union of Christian nations," no mention being made of the "ruler." Attention is called to this omission by the Osservatore Cattolico, one of the semi-official organs of the vatican, which does not he sitate to describe the brief in question as a sort of indirect command to Fall River LINE, The Fall River Line is the gre water transportation agency in world, and connects the two gr cities in the United States—New Y and Boston—serves thousands of rons annually with unsurpa modations on its wonderful stea and geographically considered incalculable value as a carrier be hesitate to describe the brief in questhe South, New York, and the abandon the special prayers for kings manufacturing, commercial and recenters and localities of the East

The same caudidate insists that the United States is able to take care of herself and have a currency system of her own, independent of the rest of the world. But we can't separate ourselves from the commerce of the world, and we don't want to, especially if there is any possible chance of an administration of affairs such as we had a taste of in Boston laat Saturday. Such views are not those of experienced financiers or statesmen, men like Summer and Sherman, both of whom strongly argued years ago in the Senate of the United States for a system of international coinage, and hoped that the time would come when an American eagle would be the international unit of victorious, and Abraham Lincoln was its first president—a patriot, a lover of hu-manity. In the platform of that year it adopted for its motto: "The Union must and shall be preserved— Peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must."

It dignified labor by striking the chains from the feet of 4,000,000 slaves, and the great civil war left us with a debt of $2,-000,000,000. Three-quarters of that debt have been been still with the chain strike with a debt been the control of the control of the chain strike with the c has been honestly paid. A sound currency is as vital to the body politic as the circulation of blood to the human system. Without it business cannot be conducted on a safe and secure basis; labor cannot meet with its full reward; a man does not know what he is dealing in or what he is worth.

It was because of the importance of this money question to the business of the cannot be conducted on a safe and secure basis; labor cannot meet with its full reward; a man does not know what he is dealing in or what he is worth.

It was because of the importance of this money question to the business of the country and the prosperity of our people that Senator Lodge and the entire New England delegation went to St. Louis and fought for the gold standard. They won the fight, because the American people, the majority of them, have been educated in our public schools; because they think before they vote, and because they think before they vote, and because they think before they vote, and because they think before they tote, and the trial time and places no restrictions and places no restrictions and duty becomes high enough to restrict institutes and they becomes high enough to restrict ions and under the duty becomes high enough to tote duty becomes high enough to restrict ions and vantage over a foreign rival, it becomes producer an advantage over a foreign rival, it becomes producers an dvantage over a foreign rival, it becomes producer an advantage over a foreign rival, it becomes producers and vantage over a foreign rival, it becomes producers an advantage over a foreign rival, it

The geo-graphical situation and resources of the graphical situation and resources of the West and South made this policy pecu-liarly beneficial to those sections of our country. Such outlets would enlarge the markets for the manufacturing which must surely arise in those localities. Again, the State bordering on the Guli of Mexico would lie nearest and most accessible to this market, and through the building of cotton mills, the development of iron mines, the construction of iron furnaces, and the extension of industries, which are and the extension of industries, which are now taking place in the new South, they would be furnished with a more accessible market than could be found in any other quarter. The heart, the honor, of the nation have been assailed, and the question comes, as it did in the days of the American revoluis a most astonishing fact that the representatives from the western and southe states should have been so blinded to the future commercial welfare of their constitu-ents with Mr. Cleveland and his free trade associates and wiped this law from the associates and wiped this law from the statute book. The repeal of this law was certainly an injury to the trade of the United States. To prevent at once the United States from gaining a foothold in South and Central America would certainly confer a great favor on Great Britain. During the last twenty years England has been suffering severely from competition in China, Japan and India. The National Committees and Their Functions—How Printed Matter 15 Distributed—The Assignment of Stump Speakers.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

With the nomination of candidates for president and vice president in the national convention, the political machinery of a campaign is formally set in motion. The life of the old national committee expires by limitation; the new national committee, often composed of practically the same men, is appointed, and the contest begins in carnest.

Though the great political parties have no recognition in the constitution, they are among the chief governing forces of the country. Each party has its own Micrail organization. In the case of the republican and the democratic parties, their plans of organization will apply to both. The official existence of the national committee is considered a high political honor, which is cagerly sought by politicians. It gives the members a vote in the national councils of the party; and, in the event of the election of the party; candidates, in the distribution of the federal offices in their states.

Immediately after the national conventions, the committees organize for the campaign by the election of the party; candidates, in the distribution of the federal offices in their states.

Immediately after the national conventions, the committees organize for the campaign by the election of a chairman and secretary. The chairman must of necessity be a man of large political experience and sagacity. He is usually the friend and personal choice of the presidential nominee. The secretary's office is salaried. The chairman be comes the director general of the campaign. The secretary on the other hand is a practical process. is a practical manager, on whom much of the burden of detail falls. Before its of the burden of detail falls. Before its adjournment, the national committee selects from its membership an executive or working committee, and designates a place for the opening of national headquarters. The members of the executive committee as a rule are distinguished representatives of their states, or group of states descented. tinguished representatives of their states, or group of states, chosen for their knowledge of political conditions. The members of this committee remain at headquarters during the campaign as an advisory council to the chairman and secretary, holding daily meetings, which resemble the councils of an army general. Daily reports from all parts of the country are received by the committee by mail and telegraph, from the chairmen of the state committees, and from prominent men in different states. rom prominent men in different states.
t is the only duty of the executive comcountry and to act in accordance with the symptoms. Hundreds of letters and telegrams are received daily; dis-

by the committee. It may be compar to a nervous center with sensitive fiber radiating in every direction.

It is sometimes found expedient be a national committee to divide it forces, and to maintain headquarter York and Chicago, or Washington and Chicago. This has been done by the national republican committee in the present campaign. The executive com-mittee is Sivided between New York and Chicago. Mark A. Hawara and Chicago. Mark A. Hanna, the chairman, vibrates between the tw cities.

No sooner has the national head-quarters been established than it be-comes the center of interest to every voter in that faith. Hardly a man of solution and the same of the s and attention. The reception of call-ers, therefore, becomes a matter of delicacy and tact, which is intrusted to the sergeant-at-arms or his assistants, Few of the visitors can be admitted to the presence of the chairman of the the presence of the chairman of the committee or the heads of departments, but all must be made to feel that they have not been slighted. The position of sergeant-at-arms is one requiring great tact and judgment on the part of the occupant.

So many calls for printed speeches, documents and other information are received by the averaging the speeches.

documents and other information are received by the executive committee that provision is made for them in the literary bureau. The strongest writers and the editors of the leading papers in the party are enlisted in the service of the bureau for the preparation of the matter to be sent out. Arguments for the platform or principles of the test of the platform or principles. the platform or principles of the party are printed in the form of pamphlets leaflets or folders. The speeches of the leaders of the party in the senate or pouse of representatives are issued in orinted form to be scattered far and wide. In the present campaign there is a great demand for information on financial questions, such as the coinage of silver and gold. To meet this demand the arguments for either stand-ard are reduced to simple form for hand-to-hand circulation, and sent out by the literary bureaus in vest quanti-ties. This distribution is accomplished by a department created for the pur-pose, from which printed matter is pose, from which printed matter shipped by the ton to the state and shipped by the ton to the state and county committees.

Before the campaign has far advanced, there will be a call upon the national committee for speakers. A bureau of speakers becomes a necessary adjunct to the headquarters, by which the orators are assigned to different parts of the country. It is customary for the leading men of the party to be called upon or to volunteer their services as speakers. They are assigned to state committees, under whose direction they committees, under whose direction the address meetings in the cities and towns certain men of national reputation are always in demand, and it becomes diffi-cult to send them to as many place as they are wanted. A host of other speakers, down to the college students who speak in schoolhouses during va-cations, work under the guidance of the state committees. the state committees.

In the preparation of printed matter the assignment of speakers and the dispatch of the mass of correspondence a vast amount of work and material are required. As a consequence, large sums of money become necessary is conducting a campaign. To meet these calls, a financial committee is appointed, whose business it is to raise the funds needed. The cost of a campaign runs into the millions, all of which must be raised by subscriptions and contributions. The wealthy men of the Service in the lower committees fits for positions on the higher. The machinery of the parties forms a school of political advancement.

Forgetfulness.

The man who beats the lottery forgets that he's been poor.
The chap whose aching tooth is out remembers it no more,
The victor, crowned, forgets the strain it took to win the laurel.
The lovers, after all's made up, forget their bitter quarrel.
Likewise the iceman honest is, when he puts up the price,
It forgets the chilly winter, with its overplus of ice!

sion, but the same remark had been made the session before.

It was at this period that the eyes of the world became gradually turned on Billy McCabe, who was at first called the English Edison, but after awhile people began to term Edison the American McCabe, which went to show that Billy was getting on in the world. No body was so much disappointed at the inaction of the house of commons as Billy, and it is doubtful if anyone used more reprehensible language on the subject than he did. Billy was not the subject than he did. Billy was not the sam to sit calmly under this injustice, and he held, quite truly, that it was ridiculous that a country like England should have a law compelling a motor car to go at four miles an hour, preceded by a tired-looking man with a red flag. Billy had invented a motor car the house of commons to pass its motor car enactment so that he might float care to go a common to pass its motor over enactment so that he might float care to go a common to pass its motor car enactment so that he might float care to go a common to pass its motor care reactment so that he might float care to go and the motor care reactment so that he might float care to go and the motor care reactment so that he might float care to go and the care to the care to him, and then not hesistate to him, and the house of commons to pass its motor car enactment so that he might float his company and compete with the other organizations already in the field, for organizations already in the field, for the patronage of those who wished to run along the country roads as swiftly as if they were in a railway train. Bil-ly's car differed from all others then in the market. It was extremely light, being made of a composition of steel and aluminum or something of that sort. It did not depend for its motive power on either electricity or petrole-um. It was simplicity itself. In a strong reservoir it geaerated the new acetylene gas, which is easily made by dropping a lozenge of carbine of calcium acetylene gas, which is easily made by dropping a lozenge of carbline of calcium into a little water. Not being a practical chemist, I am a little uncertain whether the substance is carbine of calcium; it may be carbine of sodium; but anyhow it is carbine of something, and this into a little water. Not being a practical the county had been a bit water. In the substance is carbine of calcium; it may be carbine of sodium; but anyhow it is carbine of something, and this substance can be made into little tablets. The furthest north policeman had the fact of the second the s substance can be made into little tablets which, when dissolved in water, produce the acetylene gas. There was a strong reservoir holding some water, into which was dropped automatically lozenge after lozenge as the gas generated was used in the engine, and so pumped off into the empty air. Billy had a good deal of trouble at first with his motor car, because he insisted on smoking while running it, and the acetylene gas being tremendously explosive, Billy found himself blown into the next county on frequent occasions, so he was compelled to give up the use of tobacco while riding on his car. He thought at first of calling it the antitobacco motor and floating it as a company which would reform smokers, but finally he hit on an invention which allowed a man to smoke in comfort while he sat on the car. He concected an ar-

lowed a man to smolee in comfort while he sat on the ear. He conceeded an arrangement by which the discharged gas, having done its work, passed through a box containing a soapy mixture so that the gas came off in great bubbles and floated along by the roadside. This was the germ of his next marvelous warlike invention, by means of which the gas inclosed listed in little globules that shot off into the air, floating in space for awhile, and exploded with fearful force when the bubble touched a tree or the earth. This device, as everybody knows, has changed modern locomotion. Edison came out, immediately after Billy's discovery was announced, and claimed that he had invented the same thing 25 years ago, but Billy got his patents all right, and that is the main thing in a commercial and contentious world.

I was intimately acquainted with he sat on the car. He concocted an arrangement by which the discharged gas, crated on the free land of England.

thing in a commercial and contentious world.

I was intimately acquainted with Billy, and beg to state here that it is not true, what historians have said, that McCabe set out deliberately with his motor to defy the great British empire. Nothing was farther from Billy's thoughts, he being a most peaceable citizen. He merely took out his motor to show the public how easily it might be guided in the top of the hill and was seen to get out and oil his machine in sight of the British army massing along the road, and it seemed to Sir Garnet Wolseley that McCabe was foolish in allowing the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the hill and was seen to get out and oil his machine in sight of the British army massing along the road, and it seemed to Sir Garnet Wolseley that McCabe was foolish in allowing the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the hill and was seen to get out and oil his machine in sight of the British army massing along the road, and it seemed to Sir Garnet Wolseley that McCabe was foolish in allowing the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the British army massing along the road, and it seemed to Sir Garnet Wolseley that McCabe was foolish in allowing the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the british army massing along the road, and it seemed to Sir Garnet Wolseley that McCabe was foolish in allowing the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the british army massing along the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the british army massing along the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy, on the top of the british army massing along the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy and the top of the british army massing along the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy and the top of the british army massing along the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Billy and the troops to concentrate in this fashion. But Bi merely took out his motor to show the public how easily it might be guided through even crowded streets; but the law takes no account of good intentions, knowing perhaps to what purpose they are put in paving the lower regions. So Billy was caught by a constable out at Middlesex, and hauled before a magistrate. The magistrate would listen to no excuse. He said it might be a great invention, or it might not, but that he was defying the law by not having a man with a red flag in front of his motor. Billy explained that it was impossible to have the man there, because the motor was going at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and few men, unless they are in extremely good condition, can cover that distance in 60 minutes. The magistrate retorted that this made the case all the worse, for he was running atten times the legal speed. Thereupon he fined Billy 40 shillings and costs and threatened to send the inventor to prison if ever he appeared before him again. Angry as Billy had been before, he now became wild. He said he didn't mind the 40 shillings fine, or even the costs, but the contemptuous language of the magistrate regarding his new motor car

40 shillings fine, or even the costs, but the contemptuous language of the magistrate regarding his new motor car proved the last straw on the motor's aluminium back. Billy left the magistrate's presence without a stain on his character, but at the same time he swore loudly that he would by the British empire know what it was to run up against a full-bodied motor car that would go 40 miles an hour at ordinary speed or 80 miles if it was hurried. For two or three weeks nobody saw anything of Billy, and when he did come out they did not recognize his motor car.

Then began his celebrated excursion trips to Scotland, there and back for threepence. He started up through Middlesex by the same road on which had been arrested before, and when glaring contents of the evening news-papers, which came out with special editions showing how McCabe had put the British army to rout, and was now tearing his irresistible way down to London while the great city lay de-fenseless before him. A panic-stricken, threatening crowd surrounded the houses of parliament, Government houses of parliament. hastily convened, and Mr. Balfour came to the rescue. He made some pleasant remarks on the success of Mr. Chamberlain's methods in South Africa and other parts of the world, but thought they sometimes did not work as well as they might in an enlightened country like England. He therefore proposed that they should forthwith pass the motor car bill, and then Mr. Billy McCabe would be quite within his rights in his interesting Scottish trips. This way out of the difficulty, which had occurred to nobody else, was received with cheers. Parliament being in session, immediately rushed hastily convened, and Mr. Balfour came he had been arrested before, and when the policemen endeavored to stop him they were compelled to get an ambu-lance and carry the officer is the and carry the officer to the nearest ital. No one who had seen the motor can before would now have recog-nized it, for it was built like an iron-clad, covered with triple-plated nickel steel of his own invention, through which no bullet could penetrate, and it being in session, immediately rushe through the motor car bill about as quickly as McCabe was now coming upon London, and the lords, with equal haste, gave their assent, so that by the time Billy McCabe approached Highgate Hill the motor car bill was law.

Billy was received in London with great acclamation. The lord mayor gave him a banquet at the Mansion house and voluntarily offered to become chairman of the new McCabe Acetylene. was surmounted by a conning tower

The telegraph, which was quicker than an acetylene motor car, warned the authorities of its approach, but even though the yeomanry were called out they could do absolutely nothing to stop Billy McCabe on his mad career.

McCabe's detractors have since all ged that he stole the necessities of life, but this is not true. OPPOSE A CHANGE.

Massachusetts Should Not Adopt Riennial Amendment

AN ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS

By Ex-Governor Boutwell and Many Others.

The undersigned, citizens of the State, respectfully call your attention to the proposition now before the Commonwealth for a change of the Constitution. From the organization of the Colonial government until the present time there has been an annual election for the Governor of the State, and since 1780, when the present Constitution was framed, the governor, lieutenant governor and the members of the legislature have been elected annually. In November next the voters of the Commonwealth will be called upon to decide whether elections for State officers shall take place only once in two years, beginning in 1898. This amendment, if adopted, will work a very radical change in the fundamental law of the State, and, as we think, a change adverse to poular rights.

The burden of proof is upon those who demand the change. It is for them to show beyond reasonable doubt that the rights of the people will be equally well protected when the change shall have been made. In support of the present system we have first, the history of the Colony and State through a period of two and, a half centuries as a witness at once of the advantages and the evils of the present system. In this long period of time the Commonwealth has prospered, it has increased in population, and its limited natural resources have been developed to a degree surpassing the development that has taken place in any of our sister states. Can the advocates of the proposed amendment show how, or wherein, or when, since the adoption of the constitution of 1786 the state would have been more rapidly advanced if the change which they now advocate had been made originally a part of the fundamental law?

The two most important elections, those of president, since in four years, and of the members of Congress, once in two years, canot be change which they now advocate had been made originally a part of the fundamental law?

The two most important elections, those of president, since in four years, and of the members of Congress, once in two years, canot be change

dential elections, to give that attentio

the presence of Congressional and Presidential elections, to give that attention to the proposed alteration of the Constitution which would be given in the year 1897. The public mind is engrossed by great questions of national concern, and the discussion before the people will be limited to national questions.

We do not hesitate to say that the education which is often obtained by the mass of the people from the discussion of pending question so fipublic policy far outweighs the objections suggested by the advocates of the proposed amendment. Within a decade some of our sister States of New England have adopted the change which is now proposed. The time that has passed is insufficient to enable the people to form a judgment as to the value of the change. Will it not be wise, even for those who think the amendment judicious, to postpone a final judgment until our sister States shall have reached a conclusion as to the wisdom of the new system?

It is worthy of notice that neither in the convention of 1780, which framed the Constitution, nor in the constitutional conventions of 1820 and 1853 was the abolition of annual elections a subject of consideration.

at the coming election is the proposed con stitutional amendment taking from the people of the commonwealth their annual elections and substituting therefore bi-ennial elections. Strong arguments are be-ing made for and against the change and we ooth sides of the question. No form o government is perfect, but the question at issue is one of the most important that the people nave had to meet in a long time. Our present system has stood the test of more than a century and with all of its faults the "Old Bay State" is at the head of the list in point of legisla change is that there is but one other state but that does not matter. It is better to be but that does not matter. It is better to at the head of the Sisterhood of States, and be alone, than to enter into complications, which would detract from our fair fame.

Don't Pull Down

Our popocratic friends who, because some people in our country have more than their share of wealth, wish to over turn everything and endanger the safety o all property, should take this advice of Abraham Lincoln.

"That some may be rich shows tha encouragement to industry and enterprise.

Let not him who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him labor dilligently and build one for himself; thus by example, assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

—John Neal was thrown from his buggy

when returning from the Braintree station on Saturday evening. The cause of the accident was the slipping out of the shaft-bolt. This let down the shafts and the frightened horse quickened his speed on Union street and ran into an electric light-pole on Commercial street. The buggy was wrecked, and the horse freed from the team, went quickly home. Mr. Neal escaped with several bruises and a good shaking up.

Political Pointers. triot is a grander name than partisan.

Patriot is a grander name than partisan. And there are always more patriots than partisans. For this reason there is every pason to expect an overwhelming victory for sound money in this campaign. The mass of the free silver voters may think they are laboring for their country's good, but they are sably mistaken. Their leaders may be honest, but they are misguided. The masses of the people know by instinct now, as in 1861, that repudiation, dishonor, and disaster go hand in hand. It pays now, as then, to be true to conviction of what is right, no matter how spacious the "arguright, no matter how spacious the "argu-ment" on the other side. Every honest man knows—and the majority of men de-sire to do what is honest—the free and unlimited coinage of silver as advocated by Bryan would be dishonest. The golden rule forbids that any man should vote for free silver, as proposed by the Chicago free silver, as proposed by the Chicago platform. That principle is so firmly fixed in men's minds that every patriot sees clearly his duty of voting for the "sound money" candidates, whether they are of his own political faith or not.

In his letter to the Republican Editorial association, last Saturday, Chairman Lyman of the Republican state committee said:—"All the committee recognize the standing of the Republican Editorial association, and likewise its important practical help, which we have (as you know) constantly solicited, and which we shall continue to ask for so long as its present courteous management exists. The Republican party owe more today, certainly in this state, to the press than to, any other entity in our campaign work, any other entity in our campaign work, any other entity in our campaign work and an association like yours, scattering news as it does through so large an extent of territory, cannot fail to be fully appreci-ated by those who know anything about party management." The sentiments of Chairman Lyman were received with appreciation by the association and with appreciation by the association, and with pleasure that its work in behalf of Republican principles and candidates was so heartily approved by the highest authority in the state. The association does not ask, and never has asked, any "favor" of any state committee. It has only asked and expected that it receive the courtesy due from one organization to another striving for the same ends, not desiring any antagonism but hoping for and giving the most cordial co-operation and sympathy.

The annual reunion and banquet of the Republican Editorial association of Massachusetts, which was held at the Parker house in Boston, Oct. 10, was a complete success. Göv. Wolcott refused an invitation to the Massachusetts club's dinner to Senator Hoar that he might be present, Hon. W. Murray Crane, the Re-publican nominee for lieutenant governor came clear from Dalton to make the ac-quaintance of the newspaper men, to shake them by the hand and to express shake them by the hand and to express his appreciation of the good words they had said for him during the campaign for the nomination; and Attorney General Knowlton gave up a bicycle trip to Taunton which he had "whacked up" with two of the superior court judges so that he might come down and testify to "the power of the press." Chairman Lyman was only prevented from being present by an enforced absence from town on important business of that committee, but be delegated James A. Bailey, Jr., of Arlington to take his place. Among the other guests were Col. E. C. Benton of the Governor's staff, Senator George A. Reed of Framingham, Hon. E. B. Hayes of Lynn, and Major J. Henry Gould, resident of the state Republican league Letters of regret were also received from Senator Lodge, Congressman Barrett, President Appleton of the Republicar club, Ex-Chairman E. S. Draper of th tate committee, and Hon. J. Q. A. Brackett and Hon. W. H. Haile, nomi-Brackett and Hon. W. H. Haire, nominees for Republican presidential electors-at-large, these letters expressing the heartiest sympathy with the association, and regret that other previous engage-ments or absence from town prevented attendance. The 40 or so members who were present were treated to an unusual feast of Republicanism by guests and members in the two hours after the dinner.

member of Congress is just one more vote for a policy that will protect the American workingman against foreign competition and that will also protect the American markets for his labor. Every workingman that reads history aright knows that. He also knows that the free trade free silver party will do all in knows that. He also knows that the free trade, free silver party will do all in its power to overturn and thwart any such policy. The instinct of selfpreservation, sharpened by four years of hard times, should inspire every workingman to vote for McKinley and sound money. Let the people understand the question, and then they will vote aright.

State Treasurer Shaw, in his speech to even of the national government. This is a fact worth considering by those who want the national government to enter or a policy of repudiation and dishonor, which will not be done, because the masses are too intelligent and too hones to consent.

The Political Event.

The great dinner of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, which is to take place on Wednesday evening next, October 21, in Music Hall, Boston, will be one of the great events of the campaign in New Eng-land. The present indications, based upon the sale of tickets up to date, point to a crowded house.

These dinners of the Republican Club of Massachusetts have become famous for the success which has always attended them. The arrangements for the comfort of every person who attends are carefully made and carried out, the dinner is the best that can be served upon such an occasion while the speaking, the real attraction, has always been remarkably brilliant and effective.

Many famous men have been introduced to Massachusetts Republicans at these dinners, and the speakers at the dinner.

This loes not necessarily mean that he need to know anything about literature to know anything about interature or art; in fact, the less he knows about these obsolete departments the better; but his ideas must run in the direction of some scheme that will appear very uttractive to the public and yet not en-able them to collect any money from him; this usually takes the form of life mehow or other it is imagined that somehow or other in a sur-the public simply yearn for life insur-nce, especially that kind which con-coles the widow after the insured is smashed up in a railway accident. Railway traveling in England is so safe that ry rarely anyone is killed, yet never-eless on the off chance, hundreds of thousands of papers are sold every week, and many of these estimable journals have their life insurance pol-icies so arranged that unless the train does some eccentric thing, such as stan-loss some eccentrio thing, such as stand in its head or turn three somersaults, no money can be collected by the nourning relatives.

There are running in London several ournals that have offered millions in nsurance, and yet never have paid a the announcement of innumerable pounds on his title page, and then wraps up the conditions in small type some-where inside so that even the most im-pecunious of us do not hail a railway accident in which we are interested, accident in which we are interested, with unseen joy.

When Johnson thought of starting his paper to be made up of clippings from the American press, he determined to offer a thousand pounds insurance to a subscriber who died from any acciden whatever, so long as he had any acciden whatever, so long as he had a copy of Johnson's Weekly in his pocket at the time of the disaster. Johnson's had only a thousand pounds capital when he started, and he was naturally very anxious that his money should not be looted from him the first week by some one stumbling over a cliff with the paper in his pocket, so he went to his solicitor, told him frankly the state of his case and asked him to draw up a set of conditions which would make it impossible for the relatives of the dead man to collect the money. The lawyer thought over the matter very seriously thought over the matter very seriously for a few minutes and then said: for a few minutes and then said:

"I'm: afraid, Mr. Johnson, you will have so many eases on your hands if you send out such a general accident policy like this with your paper that some one will be sure to collect from some one will be sure to collect from you. You see the safety of the other papers lies in the fact that there are so few railway accidents. A paper offering a railway insurance has so few claims that there isn't much publicity even when a claim is not paid, but so want accidents have not paid, but so many accidents happen entirely uncon-nected with trains that you would be almost certain to be brought into court eek."

"I should not mind that," said John "I should not mind that," said Johnson, "if the paper went up to 200,000,"
"The danger is," put in the man of law, "that you would have so many claims to settle that if your paper went up to a million the legal expenses alone would cripple you. Now, how would it be if you were to offer insurance of this kind? Suppose you allow the taker of the paper to insure somebody else, not the paper to insure somebody else, not himself, and then when that other person happened to be killed you pay the thousand pounds to the one who ininvolved, but perhaps you understand what I mean."

"I understand what you mean," said on, "but I don't see the advantage is this so many men hate so many others that they live perpetually on the this offer of yours would throw the bal ance completely over, and some man who wanted to slay that other man would insure him in order to draw the thousand pounds'.'

yours had committed murder for the sake of getting the thousand pounds; then the government would step in and make you stop offering a thousand pounds, which was practically an in-centive to murder. You would protest hat you had no such idea and would sithdraw your offer, declaring that the tovernment compelled you to do so, deanwhile Johnson's Weekly would be divertised up and down the land, and everyone would want to see a copy, and your fortune would be made."

"By Jove!" said Johnson, "I believe here's a good deal in the idea. I'll idopt it." And he did.

The scheme was arranged in this way:

we a copy of the paper on his person hen found, Johnson issued a card to person effecting the insurance; on card was the insurer's name, and the name of the person insured. A leate of this card was kept in John-

's Weekly office, and the lawyer said duplicate would be available in the duplicate would be available in algebring off the applicant for the £1,000. The person applying for one of these naurance cards had been sent in an an-nual subscription for the paper. When the first number of Johnson's Weekly

Independent Drum Corps. Rifle Battalion, I. B. Hawes, Commander. McKinley and Hobart Club with torches. Float with young ladies. Everything in the vicinity centers at the

Everything in the vicinity centers at the Corner by direct lines, consequently the march was peculiar; starting from the Corner, the line proceeded to the end of the village in each direction—north, south, east and west—each time, of course, returning to the starting point.

All along the line in every direction houses were brilliantly illuminated and the scene was enlivened with volleys from the rifle battalion and discharges of fireworks. At the conclusion of the march the column was drawn up beneath a furled flag attached to a line stretching across Pleasant street; the ladies on the float Pleasant street; the ladies on the float Pleasant street; the ladies on the float sang the Star Spangled Banner, and as the last words of the chorus floated out on the night air, Miss Maria Hawes pulled the line which held the flag and as its folds were blown out by the breeze three cheers were book not by the orecast line cheers from the crowd and a volley from the rifles completed the open air exercises.

The company assembled in the hall where the exercises were further continued with Bradford Hawes as chairman of the neeting. On behalf of the club he welcomed the people and spoke briefly of the importance of the campaign and the neces-sity of a clean and large Republican vote. Louis A. Cook, Esq., was the next speaker and congratulated the people of the Corner upon their enthusiastic efforts in behalf of the cause. Mr. Cook was fol-lowed by Judge James H. A HOUSEHOLD NAME.

Royal Baking Powder and the Secret of Its Success "Royal Baking Powder" is a household

"Royal Baking Powder" is a household word pretty much the civilized world over, and the article itself has become a necessity in thousands upon thousands of families in nearly every civilized country. Much of the success of this splendid preparation is due to judicious advertising, but in greater degree its success is due to the fact that it is represented to that it is exactly what it is represented to be. One of its great recommendations is its high leavesing power. That, of course, appeals to every housewife. It secures a light baking with the least amount of attention and trouble. It can be counted upon. But it has a virtue beyond that—its virtue of virtues lies in the fact that it is "absolutely pure." Royal Baking Powder contains nothing deleterious. It can be used with perfect confidence, and with the certainty that, so far as it is concerned, the baking will be thoroughly wholesome. It that it is exactly what it is represented to baking will be thoroughly wholesome. It has been subjected to the most searching has been subjected to the most scarcing analysis, and pronounced free from impuri-ties or chemical ingredients that are so harmful to the system. By adhering hon-estly and conscientiously to their formula, the manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have established for it a reputation that has made it, as it were, a great staple. It is a boon to the housewife and the cook, and a reproach to all that would adulterate food products in any manner, shape, or food products in any manner, shape, or form. In short, it is perfect baking powder, in that it combines the highest leavening wer attainable with purity in the highes

Gold commands a small premium. The most powerful force in business at present is a conservative timidity, and the foreign bankers, who have been offering for a small percentage to ensure people against a premium on gold until December, have made an easy and sure profit out of prevalent apprehensions. From Kansas, Nebraska, and other states where the silver agitation is said to be strong, comorders by many bankers to get them gold at a small premium, and there has also been some demand for hoarding from individuals in other States, who are afraid even of their own best judgment. With gold brought hither in large amounts by legitimate trade balances, and with every prospect that the movement will continue, business waits because the changes threatened are so serious that men are certain but moderate loss, rather than risk the incalculable consequences possible. Other men have a different temperament, and have begun to prepare for next month with confidence. But the tone of money markets, and the general condition of business, are to a great extent, determined by men who take counsel only of their

SOUTH SHORE COMMANDERY.

The regular meeting of South Shore Commandery as held in Masonic building East Weymouth, Monday night, was one of more than ordinary interest.

A large number of members and visitors were present and seven candidates received the Red Cross Degree.

A pleasant feature of the body was the presentation of an elegant Past, Commander's jewel to Em. Sir F. A. Bicknell, the presentation being made by Em. Sir T. J. Evans on behalf of the Commandery; though surprised at the receipt of the same at this time, Major Bicknell responded to the remarks made by Mr. Evans in a brief, but feeling speech.

In the Roses.

He was a little boy at play—
A pink from love's own posies,
An' when they missed him we would say:
"He's out there in the roses."

The flowers—they seemed to love him so, Our hearts could never chide him, Sweet-playin' where the Illies blow An' where the rose could hide him. But once—when twilight's dreamy shades Fell soft on fields an' flowers. An' darkness gloomed above the glades. An' these sad hearts o' ours;

We couldn't find him at his play;
Yet still, when daylight closes,
We hear his mother, weepin', say:
"He's out there in the roses."

AGAINST HIS WILL.

The editor was disgusted and no won It was the dull season and the Scrutater was compelled to resort to much paciding in order to fill the daily measure expected by its subscribers; it was even obliged to print copious extracts even obliged to print copious extracts from other publications—a thing only to be done as a last resource by any paper of spirit! Yet at this particular time a celebrity, a real celebrity, came for a few days' stay to Oakhampton, and refused to be interviewed!

Why he came was a mystery, but that be had come was a fact, though from the

Why he came was a mystery, but that he had come was a fact, though from the editor's point of view he might just as well have stayed away. The celebrity's unobliging disposition on the subject of interviewing had preceded him; he was perhaps the only man of note in two continents who had not submitted to the ordeal. In moments of self-depreciation he was won to say that that was his greatest claim to distinction; but even this reputation had not daunted the hopes of our editor, who felt contined that the surliest disinclination must give way before the charm and tact of the most valuable member of the Scrutator's staff. But the tact, the charm, had no opportunity of producing charm, had no opportunity of producing their usual effect; they might as well have been nonexistent. Celebrity, from the privacy of a hotel sitting-room, sent down a curt message of absolute re-

The article clearly proved that what the Public demanded it must have (for the public spelt with a capital P was as sacred to the editor as Humanity (spelt with a capital I) is to the followers of with a capital H) is to the followers of Auguste Comte. The individual as such Auguste Comte. The individual as such exists not for his own sake, but for the sake of the Public in one case, or of Ilumanity in the other. The article further demonstrated that celebrities would not exist without a Public. (How could anyone become celebrated on a desert island, for instance?) If, then,

If, then, it is to the Public that the celebrity owes his being, and the Public manifests a curiosity as to the opinions on things in general of any celebrity in particular, the Public has a right to know those leave the city that evening, but the firs train next morning earried him away The boys were calling the papers on the station platform, and so a copy of the Scrutator found its way into his valise. And not only that, but it also especially desires all loyal members of the party to join in making "Bonfire Night", which is to be the evening of the same day, as grandly glorious, by glowing illumination from lofty hill-tops, as possible. It has particularly urged upon town committees to take charge of this special feature of the movement to awaken to liveliest activity, the patriotism of every citizen without regard to party. There are differences of opinion as to the choice of candidates, but there should be no difference of opinion as to the duty of patriotism. Display all the flags you can; lend your heartiest aid to the building of the bonfires.

While the money question has been forced to the front as the chief issue of the campaign, every thinking voter in Massachusetts knows that the tariff question is full as vital an issue now as it was four years ago. Men must have work before they can have money, no matter whether it be dear gold or cheap silver. And men in Massachusetts cannot have work at decent wages until they can be protected against the cheap foreign labor that is flooding our markets, literally, with its products. Every Republican Congressman chosen in Massachusetts will help make all the stronger in Washington the forces that must take up and carry on the fight for the workingman. "Sound money" will surely win, and be of so much help. But that is only half the battle. Make the victory complete, and your own vote is the way to do it, by giving an overwhelming majority to all the Republican nominees for Congress. Help yourself and the whole

There is one more word of advice i There is one more word of advice in these last hours before you vote. It is just this: Vote for every single Republi-can nominee from the head to the foot of the ticket. Their names, are on there for you to vote upon. Take the time and trouble, and it will not take you sixty seconds longer, to vote for every single candidate who has the word "Republican" next to it, except in the case of presiden tial electors and there a cross against the hole group is enough.

nonorable means, that are known to you personally to have been such, then vote for the regular nominee. He is fairly en-citled to your vote. You may prefer some other man personally. But under our sys-tem of elections, the man who fairly and honorably obtains the nomination of his party is entitled to the vote of every hon-orable member of that party. The choice of the majority of the convention should be the unanimous choice of his party at the polls. The enemy rejoices at nothing so much as demoralization in the ranks of his opponent. "Do as you would be done by", at the polls is just as good a "Golden ule" as it is anywhere else.

It can be stated on authority that the in favor of the blennial election amend-ment to the constitution. Republican voters who have been led to look upon this as a party measure may feel relieved from any such impression. The Republi-can convention refused to put it in its plat-form, and Republicans can feel just as Never before in any campaign has the Republican Editorial Association given so nuch space to an effective presentation of the issues of the campaign, not only from a local standpoint but also from that of the state and nation. It has stood loyally by been recognized by them as a power for good, and that continually. The efficiency good, and that continually. The efficiency of this Association is no longer doubted even by those who tried to sneer it out of existence when it was first organized, in 1891. It grows stronger as it grows older, and now includes a large share of the Republican dailies and weeklies of the state

Why Massachusetts Should Adopt Blou-nial Elections

Due of the strongest reasons for supporting the biennial amendment is the feed of greater experience and greater continuity in the legislature—a result which, under the proposed biennial or less frequent system of elections. While a few of these states tontinuity in the legislature—a result which, under the proposed blennial amendment, would, in our opinion, be schleved much more effectually than at present.

Mr. Erastus D. Worthington has been an excellent clerk of courts at Dedham. His re-elections for so many years are proof of this. We willingly grant all the praise his friends ask for him and for his record in office. If he had obtained the nomination it would Lave been our pleasure to support him as in years past. But the republican county convention decided in favor of Mr. Louis A. The democrats are singularly unfortunate in their candidate for governor and very few, even of his own party, speak well of him. But in Mr. Watson the party brings forward a man who is to be respected for his personal worth and for his humanitarian interest in the people. He is a man of abundant means, an excellent financier, is clear headed and of acute business judgment. Although there is no prospect of Mr. Watson's being elected to the position this year, and he undoubtedly has no expectations of an election, yet nevertheless he will receive many complismentary votes in Weymouth and Braintree, where people know him and know of his public spirited generosity and of his active personal interest in all public affairs.

The County Clerkship

Much is being done in this town to create sympathy and support for Erastus Worthington, Esq., as Clerk of the County Court, who, failing of nomination at the Republican County convention, and after wards at the Democratic Convention where he also sought endorsement, is now where he also sought endorsement, is now running for that office on nomination papers. In order that injustice may not be done Louis A. Cook, Esq., the regular Republican nominee, the voters of Hyde Park should be informed of the true situation regarding this important office.

Mr. Worthington has held this office continually for thirty-seven years, notwithstanding that it is an elective one. After having experienced so many years of the County's favor, it would seem that he should be content with the house. he should be content with the honors' already conferred, and stand ready to retire when both political parties of the County, in their Conventions, have declared for a change. At the Republican convention the friends of Mr. Worthington most ably presented his claims for a renomination. A fair and onen helito was nomination. A fair and open ballot was had, which resulted in the choice of Mr Cook:

The County Commissioner fight does not enter into this contest at all, as that was settled at the Convention. Mr. Cook is settled at the Convention. Mr. Cook is entitled to the loyal support of every Republican in the County, as he received the nomination honorably and fairly, and is well qualified for the position. There is another phase of the situation that must be considered by those who are inclined to support Mr. Worthington this year, and that is, the danger of electing the Democratic candidate, David W. Murray, Esq., of this town, whose years and inexperience hardly qualify him for the high position to which he aspires. The

One resident—a woman, bearing the name of Baker—has made herself famous for all time by a little act of thoughtful kindness that would never have been noticed had it been done in most towns. Mrs. Baker, been done in most towns. Mrs. Baker, though she lived and died years before Secretary Morton was known, was a firm believer in Arbor day. She set out such native trees as she could find growing on the hills, and sent away to friends and got several varieties that had lately come over from Europe.

One spring morning in the fourth decade of the present century, a coaster came in from Boston, having a few trees on board billed to Mrs. Baker. Among them was a rare species known as the honey locust. The agent who sold it to her praised it very highly, saying it

The November number of THE ARKNA The November number of The Array is an unusually strong number, not only politically, but also in its social and economic features. In the opening article, "The Issue of 1885," Prof. Frank Parsons, the well-known political economist, discusses the present crisis and shows in a remarkably clear and convincing manner the advantages that would result from the remonetization of silver. Justice Walter Clark, LL. D., of North Carolina, who has made a special study of the money question, contributes a strong article entitled "Free Silver Indispensable," carolina, who has made a special study of the money question, contributes a strong article entitled "Free Silver Indispensable but not a Panacea," in which he points out the oppressive manner in which the present gold standard affects the farmers and the people generally in the matter of railway passenger fares, freight charges, etc. Hon. William H. Standish, ex-Autorney-General of North Dakota, writes on "The Impending Crisis," and the editor, B. O. Flower, in a most interesting paper entitled "Four Epochs in the History of our Republic," containing photogravures of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, and Bryan, outlines four of the most remarkable periods in American history. MANY RALLIES ARE ARRANGED.

Plan of Campaign Looks For-

The sound money Democrats, or as they call themselves, the "National Democratic Party," in Massachusetts, have postponed their meetings and rallies to the last week of the campaign. Beginning with a ratification meeting in Boston Music hall, Monday, the 26th inst., they have arranged meetings for every night during the week intervening between that date and election in various places in different parts of the state. Northampton. Greenfield. Williamstown, Fitchburg, Melrose, Woburn, Norwood, Brookline, Waltham, Quincy and other places in Middlesex, Essex and Worcester counties are on their list for meetings, in addition to sundry halls in South Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury and the North End and Faneuil hall, which has been engaged for two meetings. At these meetings they expect to make a vigorous effort to impress Democrats with appeals to vote for Palmer and Buckner electors, and for Hon. Frederick O. Prince as their candidate for overnor.

If you vote for Palmer and Buckner, Prince and McConnell, and the rest of the ticket, there is no mistaking your attitude of rebuke. Your vote counts against Bryan and Williams. It becomes openly a vote of a Democrat against them.

No silver Democrat should be given a chance to say that nearly all the Democratic party is with them, that the missing Democrats stayed at home and didn't vote, and the Republican total only means the usual large Republican vote in a presidential year, or that it means the desertion to Republicans mor weak-kneed Democrats.
